Recovery Coaching

People who achieve long-term recovery often find that stopping the use of substances is just the first step. Your Recovery Coach will help you create a vision for your life in recovery, define your goals, and then help you work toward those goals.

Helping individuals and families impacted by alcohol and drug addiction.

A Recovery Coach:

- ✓ Works with people who have active addictions, people who are already in recovery, or with people who are concerned about someone else's substance use.
- ✓ Helps people to create a vision for their life in recovery.
- ✓ Assists in identifying and removing barriers to recovery.
- ✓ Supports people on ALL pathways to recovery.
- ✓ Navigates through the human services system, provides access to community resources, connects people with additional recovery services, including treatment facilities, recovery centers, and mutual support groups.

COACHING IS RELEASING A PERSON'S POTENTIAL TO MAXIMISE THEIR OWN PERFORMANCE. IT IS HELPING THEM TO LEARN RATHER THAN TEACHING THEM.

We can help straighten things out

Recovery Coaches working at the NCVRC have completed a week-long training, work with regular supervision, and participate in ongoing personal and professional development. Coaches are peers in recovery. Peers are people who have lived experiences and are on their own recovery path.
